Afolabi Emmanuel OYERINDE is a teacher of English. He has a BA Honours Degree in Communication and Language Arts (with English) and an MA (in view) ; he is TESOL certified. He lectures candidates for IELTS (Academic & General) , TOEFL, PTE (Academic & General) the SAT, IGCSE, Duolingo English Test (DET) , Cambridge Assessment English (CEA) , Canadian English Language Proficiency Index Programme (CELPIP) , and other English language proficiency tests, English grammar, English Phonology (or pronunciation) , English Semantics, communication skills (language arts - writing, speaking, reading and listening) , English morphology and syntax (including the Systemic Functional Grammar (SFG) and the Transformational Generative Grammar (TGG) , literature in English (African literature, Asian literature, Caribbean literature, etc.) and English literature, A-Level examinations, etc.

Further, his teaching skills are excellent and he is proficient at using the English language. He not only helps learners to come to grips with writing, speaking, listening and reading, but is also passion-driven, ebullient, efficient, proactive and go-getter freelancer and pedagogue whose main interest is in imparting knowledge to others whom are willing to improve their academic performances with a view to achieving the greatest academic breakthroughs.

As an excellent teacher, by using the Discussion Assignment Project (DAP) approach, he concretises every topic with relevant illustrations. In addition, he provides his students with in-depth analyses of the appropriate recommended texts, especially in literature in English or English literature, and the dissection of adequate model questions.

As an adept, eagled eyed copy editor, proofreader and freelancer, who understands the grammaticality of the English language, he is accustomed to editing, with such clarity, precision, creativity, acuity, sharp eye for detail and fine attention to detail. He has proofread and copyedited long essays, theses, online media contents, website contents, news articles, etc. In addition, he is a past master in writing error-free essays with unified and coherent paragraphs.

In furtherance, his research skills are second to none and his priority is satisfying his students (or employers) by providing them with unmatched, inimitable, one-of-a-kind services. Most importantly, he is proactive, go-getter trustworthy, hardworking and punctilious.

He has published five books under the titles of A Guide to the English Language (1) : The Grammatical Units and the Concord, A Guide to the English Language (2) : The Grammatical Accuracy, A Guide to the English Language (3) : Standard English, A Guide to the English Language (5) : The English Phrasal Verbs and Collocations and A Guide to the English Language (6) : The English Idioms and Proverbs.
