

Poetry Series

hannah parks
- poems -

Publication Date:
2012

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

hannah parks()

I am 18 and live in Michigan. I have a twin Sister named Raven. we are both 5'8 and have hazel green eyes and brown hair. we have been writing poems together about 2-5 years

Days Go By

Isnt it weird how days go by you sit in class all day and dont know what just happened you drew a blank, u blacked out your loss, it was hilarious he just got knocked out while you were in your own little world what now, we cant push replay this is not Youtube were you can rate how funny it was too bad let it go dont cry, wipe them tears im telling you whats true its funny how days go by u miss something that small one day youll graduate youll miss all these fun days ha! just kidding its goin to be amazing youll get to live your life

Days go by you still live, a lil i got to go but just to let you know days go by and then we fly

hannah parks

I Loved You Once

I loved you once
It seemed so long ago

I use to wonder if you'd love me when I'm old as days go by and by i know you'll be by my side

i loved you once
you must have known

you saw it when i cried and knew when you looked me in the eyes

i loved you once
i know a long time age

I use to wonder (was it a dream) if you loved me so

But now as days go by and by I know you'll never be my side

But oh, how lovely if it were to be I still wonder if we'll see

hannah parks