

Poetry Series

jessica dangerfield
- poems -

Publication Date:
2012

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive jessica dangerfield(September,9 1999)

My name is Jessica Dangerfield of course I love to write, I love to read, my goal is to go to college, then later become a Delta Sigma Theta

Boy's Are Like Signal Lights

boys are like signal lights, the light turns red they stop in your face, and say "you're pretty, " and they know your easy to get.
Green light come, you've done fell for his tricks, now he done got what he wanted(sex) .
Yellow light come, he slows down the there's always a lesson to be let a boy tell you you're pretty because as a young adult you should already know that.

jessica dangerfield

Love

Love is passionate, love is the sun shining on me, love is the stars twinkling in the sky super high.
most of all love is apart of you and people think love is just a four letter word but it's more than that

jessica dangerfield

Mama You'Re An Angel

mama your're an angel of love, an angel of wisdom,
an angel of faith,
and an angel of god, the lord has been accepting your calls, and answering them too, mama your an angel that's why I love you

jessica dangerfield

Now You See

Now you see why my attitude is mild, Now you see why the crows run wild, Now you and I see why the stars not tinkling high in the sky, Now I see why everyone think of me as a child that has been hurt so many times.

I`m a child with so many talents but no encouragement at all, a child that smiles to hide my tears.

But i`m always gone know that i`m a child of god.

jessica dangerfield

The Confession

dear confession,

One summer my mom got mad at me because she found out that I was talking to older boys, and every time she'd ask me i'll deny.

But that night I was reading my bible I ran across a scripture that stated, "my tounge shall confess, and every knee shall bow.

so that night I prayed to god, god gave his ear unto next morning I told my mom the in life I tried to become a better person that was my goal to achieve but, I soon found out acievement has it's own anticlimax

jessica dangerfield