Alone

it's not worth it just stand quiet sit still what is my worth if i can't stand up fight for whats good for me the world my people my class mates I may be the last person to think about the one that just sits down and says not a word but I swear one day I'll stand up and say my words whatever they are sitting her croup their they go again insulting me my people my family

Talk I tell myself the words don't fall out there are no brave and strong things to say just sit there and wait one day I'm going to do it a person can only be alone for so long right?
