

Poetry Series

Martin McCollugh
- poems -

Publication Date:
2012

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

Martin McCollugh()

I am a young poet I've been writing for about 2-3 years I love writing poetry. I love getting messages and comments that contain hints tips praise and criticisms, I'm just trying to get better, I welcome it all from everyone. Please give me more! I have a poem entitled 'Poetry' if you take the time to read it, it outlines what poetry is for me. In a nut shell I wouldn't be who I am now without it. But please by all means read it

I Try

I try and forget the past wrongs
But the present brings more on

I try and look past the bad I see
Because to look blinds me

I try to remember what was
So that first love doesn't do what it normally does

I try to keep a smile and keep hope
But around my neck tightens the rope

I try to hold back all my tears
When I can't hold it is my fear

I try to keep a firm grasp on what's mine
But it seems like I'm wasting my time

Martin McCollugh

Thats Life

Cold world
No love
The day to day is rough

Long days
Short nights
Each second has its own strife

Empty planet
Full of apathy
But they expect different of me

It's unfair
Seen as just
Leaves a honest man in the dust

Martin McCollugh

Together Yet Alone

Been through this before
I know how it goes
And again I'm on this road

Alone in a relationship
In my heart I feel alone
Still looking at my phone

When I know you've not called
Because I'm wishing you did
I pray these feelings to rid

We are supposed to be one
Yet two is our main number
Two very different to go further

I beg we end up on the same page
But it's like we are in separate books
Seems the titles are just for the look

I can deal with being alone
But not when I shouldn't be

Martin McCollugh