

Poetry Series

miranda scales
- poems -

Publication Date:
2009

Publisher:
Poemhunter.com - The World's Poetry Archive

miranda scales(jan.06,1986)

My name is Miranda. I'm 23 years old and I love to write. I have two kids whom I love to death and are my inspiration for writing... I live in Columbus, MS where the only thing there is to do is write.

Life

Life for me ain't have no silver spoon.
Just heart ache and pain.
Had to grow up too soon.

Life for me has seen the best of hard times.
Molestation by an uncle and an environment full of crime.

My life wasn't easy but it made me the best.
I grew up to be a success after all of life's tests.

My life is a testimony of taking the bad with the good.
And how it's many changes pushed me out the 'hood.

And today I can't regret none of the heartache and strife.
Because the lessons they've taught made me stronger in life...

miranda scales

Tiresome Love

Loving him ain't easy.
It's tiresome and rough.
It breaks down strong walls that I built to be tough.

Tiresome I am of loving this long.
And feeling so weak when I want to be strong.
To rest in this love would be like heaven to me.
Because through the tears and pain, with him is where I want to be.
And to dream of us forever would do me just fine.
and wake up to the reality of his love being all mine.
Oh how I wish we could do all of the above.
Because the reality of it all is I'm tired of this tiresome love.

miranda scales